Kaiser Steel Signs Truman Pay Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast steel operator, today accepted President Truman's proposed compromise in the steel wage dispute and signed a contract with the CIO steelworkers. Kaiser made the announcement of the contract, giving employes of his West Coast plants an 18½ cents hourly increase, after a White House conference with Mr. Truman and CIO President Philip Murray.

Benj. Fairless Philip Murray

This development came as CIO steelworkers began walking out of the nation's mills in advance of the scheduled general strike reset for Sunday midnight after U. S. Steel rejected President Truman's compromise plan.

Kaiser, in the presence of Murray, said he had accepted the President's proposal because "it is not only time to sing America—but it's time to live and love it."

Murray and Kaiser saw the President at 10 a. m. and left about 20 minutes later.

Kaiser had already signed with the CIO Automobile Workers covering employes of the new Kaiser-Fraser auto plant at Willow Run. This agreement calls for wage increase and bonuses for workers.

Meanwhile, fires in huge blast furnaces of U. S. Steel's mills burned slowly today and the last flame of hope of halting the strike of 750,000 CIO steelworkers flickered feebly.

Hope faded yesterday of averting the walkout, which, if fully effective, would be one of the biggest, if not the biggest, in the nation's history. President Truman's compromise proposal for settling the U. S. Steel wage dispute, accepted by CIO President Murray, was rejected by Benjamin F. Fairless, U. S. Steel president.

The strike, originally scheduled to begin Jan. 14, "must take place," said Murray, indicating the 750,000 members of the CIO United Steelworkers' Union he heads will remain away from their jobs in 1300 steel, aluminum and fabricating plants.

The only possible avenue opened for averting the strike was reconsideration of Mr. Truman's wage proposal of 18½ cents an hour by Fairless. He was asked to reconsider, but few government officials or others believed "Big Steel" would alter its position.

The 750,000 steelworkers, plus an undetermined number of workers in industries where work will be affected by the walkout, will join some 886,000 men and women already idle in scores of industries because of labor disputes.

The paralyzing strike of some 263,000 CIO and AFL workers in the meat industry entered its fourth day as meat supplies across the country became more scarce.

In another huge strike, involving 200,000 CIO electrical workers against General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors, no progress was reported.

As the steel strike neared, the Civilian Production Administration in Washington said in event of a general walkout, a program of voluntary rationing of steel supplies would be put into effect.

Two CIO locals, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Pittsburg, Cal., left their jobs nearly 48 hours in advance of the scheduled strike hour.

At the Jones Laughlin Steel Corp. plant near the downtown district of Pittsburgh, Pa., 9000 workers left jobs yesterday.

U. S. Steel said its biggest subsidiary, Carnegie-Illinois Steel, started banking furnaces. Carnegie-Illinois plants in Gary, Ind., and South Chicago, largest steel producing mills in the world, were closing down as quickly as possible.

In New York City, a strike by 32,000 CIO transport workers was threatened, which would disrupt all city-owned subways, buses, trolleys and elevated trains.

In Akron, O., the CIO United Rubber Workers local at Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. plant approved a strike, 10 to 1.

In Washington, the Greyhound Corp., whose bus service in 18 eastern states was disrupted for 69 days by a strike of 4000 AFL employes, told a government fact-finding board the company would not be bound by any board wage recommendations.

Kaiser Praised

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—CIO President Murray said today the Kaiser steel contract signed today terminates Oct. 16. He added "the nation owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. Kaiser."

"Mr. Kaiser," Murray said, "as a great American has made a contribution to the nation."

Murray reported that President Truman "seemed to be delighted" with the agreement.

Steel Strike to Call Out Thousands in Bay State

Thousands of steel workers in eastern Massachusetts prepared today to strike at midnight tomorrow, and regional OPA officials launched a statewide drive to curb black marketing in meat, as wage negotiations for both industries collapsed in Washington. The national steel strike will involve between 5000 and 6000 Bay State union workers in scores of plants, to enforce CIO demands for wage increases. Nearly 700 employes of the Davis & Furber Machine Co., North Andover, jumped the gun by walking out yesterday, charging the management had refused to negotiate.

The steel strike is expected to postpone negotiations being conducted by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration in the dispute at one Whitinsville and four Worcester steel plants where approximately 4000 have been on strike for a week.

In the face of a looming meat famine and with Boston dealers reporting barely enough stocks to last through the weekend, Eldon C. Shoup, regional OPA administrator, ordered all local price control boards to aid in fighting black market rackets and over-ceiling prices for remaining meat supplies.

In addition Shoup assigned one-third of the entire staff of OPA investigators to the field, to concentrate on meat sales, an dsent out extra supplies of OPA anti-inflation price lists for distribution to the public.

Malcolm McCabe, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retails Grocers and Provision Dealers' Ass'n, described the situation resulting from the meat packers' strike as even worse than pictured.

Herman C. Lythgoe, food and drug director of the State Department of Public Health, said plans were afoot to import meat next week on the hoof and process it in local slaughterhouses not affected by the strike. He added, however, that these facilities were limited and the benefit would scarcely be felt.

With more than half of the nation's total meat supply shut off, a fact-finding panel today scheduled hearings in Chicago beginning Tuesday, International News Service reported.

Iran Appeals Russian Dispute To UNO Council

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Iran appealed to the United Nations Security Council today to investigate its dispute with the Soviet Union.

The Iranian delegation contends there is "Soviet interference with the internal affairs of Iran."

The appeal to the 11-member council was decided on after the Iranian government failed in direct negotiations with Russia.

Russia is one of the five permanent members of the Security Council and as such could exercise a veto vote on any formal action taken.

This is the first international dispute to come before the Security Council.

Curley on Way to Boston; Asks New Trial Monday

By FRANK REILLY
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—As Mayor James M. Curley boarded a 10 o'clock train for Boston today, his defense counsel announced they were convinced there was a "substantial chance" for reversal of his conviction by a district court jury on charges of conspiracy and mail fraud.

The mayor, accompanied by his son Leo and a score of friends, seemed cheerful as he stepped aboard the train and said he would return here Monday, when his attorneys will argue a motion for a new trial.

In their statement today, his attorneys declared his conviction was due to a "long line of unfortunate propaganda which had a great influence in this case."

"Those of us associated with the defense in this trial," the statement continued, "feel the chances of reversal of the verdict are very, very substantial—much more so than in the average criminal case.

"The customary and normal steps will be taken. We will file a motion for a new trial and assign grounds, of which there are many. If denied, we will note an appeal to the circuit courts and if the appeal is lost there we will go to the Supreme Court."

His attorneys, William E. Leahy and Nicholas Chase, accompanied by Boston Corporation Counsel Joseph A. Scolponetti, are spending the week-end at the Chase home in Chevy Chase, Md., preparing their argument on the motion for a new trial Monday.

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY, SON LEO (AT RIGHT)
Leave Federal Court After Guilty Verdict

It's an Ill Wind—

Mayor Curley disclosed in Washington today that if the jury at his trial on mail fraud charges had reached its verdict Thursday night before recessing, he would have been a passenger on the Boston-bound plane which crashed in Connecticut.

A reservation made for the Mayor on the Eastern Air Lines transport was cancelled when the jury reported it was deadlocked at 10 p. m. Thursday and was instructed to resume deliberations yesterday.

Guilty verdicts were returned against Curley and his co-defendants, Donald Wakefield Smith, former NLRB member, and James G. Fuller, late last night.

Curley faced the jury stoically with his son standing beside him to hear the verdict.

His only display of emotion was a slight frown. His co-defendants, Fuller, who is serving a five-year term in New York on a charge of sending fraudulent securities through the mails, and Smith, both paled visibly.

Smith, in fact, almost collapsed and turned his back on the court, grasped the arm of his wife and cried:

"It's impossible!"

"Mr. Smith, restrain yourself," Judge James M. Proctor called from the bench.

Fuller composed himself quickly but deputy marshals said he later wept as he was returned to his cell. He had been convicted on all 14 counts of the indictment while guilty verdicts were returned on nine of 14 counts against Curley and on five of six against Smith.

After the jury was excused, Judge Proctor released both Curley and Smith on their present cash bond of $2500 each.

Curley gave the press a brief statement as he left the courthouse.

"The only thing I have to say is that this fight has been in progress since 1941. It will continue in the Court of Appeals," he said.

The jury's verdict, reached after 17½ hours of deliberation, interrupted by a recess for a night's sleep and frequent returns to the courtroom for various documents, brought a demand for an individual poll of jurors by defense counsel.

Three jurors, apparently nervous and tired, made mistakes in the numbers of separate counts on which they found the defendants guilty.

Justice Proctor instructed them to return and re-check their verdict and it required almost an hour to straighten out the discrepancies.

At this point, Justice Proctor addressed the jury, asserting:

"Counsel for the defense has requested that I question each of you individually concerning this matter: Do any of you subscribe to Life Magazine? Does it come to your home?"

Receiving no answer to these queries, the justice continued:

"I assume by your silence that your answer is no. Did you see a pictorial article in this week's

Curley Mayoralty Safe, Legal Authorities Agree

While Mayor Curley's position as a Massachusetts Congressman seemed likely to be jeopardized today by his conviction on mail fraud charges, there appeared every likelihood he would continue as Mayor of Boston regardless of the outcome of the court case.

In realization of this, friends and supporters of the veteran politician planned a rousing reception for the city's 71-year-old chief executive when he arrives at South Station from Washington tonight at 7. News of Curley's conviction spread gloom among his friends, admirers and supporters. To many the verdict seemed incredible, and hundreds telephoned the Record-American for confirmation. The majority of the callers expressed amazement and grief.

Friends pointed out that the Boston city charter contains no obstacle to prevent him from retaining his municipal office because the Federal conviction in no way deprives him of his civil rights as a citizen of Massachusetts.

Any effort to unseat Curley from his congressional post would require filing a bill or resolution declaring the seat vacant, according to the House parliamentarian in Washington.

Such a measure would probably be assigned to the House judiciary committee and then go through the same procedure as any other bill, it was said.

It was considered likely today the mayor would resign his 11th Massachusetts district seat in Congress, leading to speculation about possible candidates to serve his unexpired term. Although the mayor has recourse to the circuit and Supreme Courts, customary procedure in Congress is to exclude a member on preliminary conviction.

At lease eight candidates were considered today as likely competitors in the district, which includes East Boston, Charlestown, the North and West Ends and Ward 22, Brighton; all of Cambridge and Wards 1, 2 and 3 in Somerville.

Among leading candidates mentioned were John F. Kennedy, son of Joseph P. Kennedy, of Beacon Hill; Rep. Michael J. Neville, Cambridge, House minority leader, and Thomas H. Eliot, Cambridge, who was defeated for re-election to the seat in 1942.

DONALD WAKEFIELD SMITH
Near Collapse in Court

Others expected to enter the race include John F. Cotter, recently designated by the Mayor as his Washington secretary. In 1937, Cotter, then secretary to Cong. John P. Higgins, was designated by the clerk of the national house to conduct his affairs when Higgins resigned to become chief justice of the superior court.

Two months later, however, Cotter was defeated in a special election by Thomas A. Flaherty, now chairman of the State Public Utilities Commission.

Other possible candidates are former State Sen. Joseph A. Langone, Jr.; City Councilor James S. Coffey of East Boston; John B. Carr of Somerville, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor in 1944, and State Rep. Paul A. McCarthy of Somerville.

The Mayor is expected to resign his congressional seat shortly despite plans to exhaust every legal recourse to upset the conviction.

This procedure might well take two years, and friends suggested it was not improbable President Truman would be asked to exercise his pardon powers in Curley's behalf.

Legal experts explained that a prison sentence is not mandatory. While the fact that he faces possible maximum sentences totaling 47 years and fines totaling $19,000 sounds startling, they pointed out that such severe terms are rarely imposed.

Even if Curley were sentenced to prison, he could remain as mayor without legal interference, various legal authorities asserted. They said no state statutes nor city charter provisions were on the books to cope with such a contingency.

Published reports that the mayor would be subject to recall after he had served two years were proved erroneous today. There was such a provision under Section 46 of the city charter, but this was repealed in 1918.

A bill is now pending before the Legislature which would bar any person found guilty of a crime from thereafter holding public office.

However, where the offense of which Curley was convicted occurred in 1941, such a law enacted now would probably be ruled unconstitutional as ex post facto in this instance, the American was informed.

Film Stars' Party Ends in Free-for-All

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19 (INS)—Eyewitness accounts sweeping Hollywood concluded that a casual "pre-dawn" scuffle which sent Actor Jack LaRue to an emergency hospital probably was one of the most notable roughhouse incidents in the film capital's history.

Several Hollywood celebrities were reportedly involved in the main event of the party, which earlier had numbered such film personages as Errol Flynn and his wife, Nora; Ida Lupino; Burgess Meredith and Paulette Goddard; Merle Oberon, David O. Selznick, Jennifer Jones, Harpo Marx, Ben Hecht, Raoul Walsh, Constance Collier and others.

Diana Barrymore, daughter of the late John Barrymore, present at the home of artist John Decker, scene of the melee, admitted she participated in the fisticuffs.

Jack La Rue Sam Colt

Deputy sheriffs who found LaRue lying in Decker's driveway, bleeding from cuts on the back of the head, nose and lower lip, merely recorded that the victim and Lawrence Tierney, who portrayed "Dillinger" on the screen, had engaged in a "scuffle."

The fracas reportedly started when Sammy Colt, son of Ethel Barrymore, accidentally fell over an upstairs bar, smashed some liquor glasses and a statue named "Mona," owned jointly by Decker and Flynn.

Miss Barrymore related:

"That perfectly awful Tierney hit poor Sammy, and when I saw Sammy covered with blood I got furious. Tierney had pulled his own shirt off and was standing there like Tarzan. I went up to him and said, 'You are hitting everybody so why don't you hit a woman?'"

Then, Miss Barrymore said, "I slapped him across the face as many times as I could. I'm sorry it had to happen, but when he hit Sammy I had to go after him."

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (INS)—Ever wonder how Benito Mussolini managed to keep his right arm upraised in the Fascist salute for hour after hour?

Brekke, who visited Mussolini's palatial residence at Lake Garda, said: "I found an artificial arm fashioned in the Fascist salute. To it were attached heavy straps to be fastened about the body."

UNO Group Impressed By Historic Middlesex

The rolling countryside of Middlesex County, scene of thrilling events in early American history, made a favorable impression on the seven delegates of the United Nations Organization today as they viewed the area in their search for a permanent site for the world capital.

"Very good land, very good, indeed," commented Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia, committee chairman, as the group scanned the landscape from an observation tower atop Nobscot Mt. in Sudbury.

From the high vantage point they could look over 70 square miles. Within range were the historic battlegrounds of Lexington and Concord, and the route along which Paul Revere rode to rouse the countryside.

The committee, enthused over the area's possibilities as a sit, accepted the offer of a blimp ride over the sectiono. With Navy Capt. Carl Lang of Weymouth Air Base at the controls the group will make an air tour over Lincoln, Concord, Sudbury and Marlboro tomorrow.

British reporters accompanying the delegates were disappointed when the entourage did not stop at Lexington. They complained that they wanted to see the reaction of Kenneth Younger, British member, as he stood on the ground where America began the fight which ended in independence from England.

The visitors were impressed with the size of Bedford airport where they were greeted by Col. John J. Mullen, commanding officer. They lunched in the storied Wayside Inn at Sudbury and then visited the Dennison estate at Framingham.

Dr. Gavrilovic announced the report on possible selection of Boston as temporary headquarters is not complete but he expected it would be ready later today.

Tonight the delegates are going to the Boston Symphony and let their ears rejoice them in the universal language. Sir Adrian Boult of the British Broadcasting System, who staged an impromptu concert for them Thursday, when they dropped in to test the acoustics with a technician, will be wearing his coat tonight.

As important in the world-wide scheme of things as the seven men are, Boston Symphony officials had a chore on their hands in the matter of providing them with seats. A spokesman said, "they will all be in front of the cross aisle in the center section but we had to ask people to give up their regular seats. Co-operation was easily obtained, however."

Tomorrow night the seven delegates will see their second hockey game here.

Monday they will visit Beverly, Manchester, Ipswich, Andover, North Andover and Wilmington.

Degnan Murder One-Man Job, Sleuth Believes

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (INS) — Belief that the kidnap-slaying of Suzanne Degnan was a one-man job and that the killer may not have used the bedroom window to leave the child's home was expressed today by Sgt. Jack Hanrahan, a detective working on the case.

He expressed confidence the crime would be solved. His deductions were made as other investigators paid considerable attention to two remaining major clues—two handkerchiefs.

Sgt. Hanrahan said that when the crime is solved "there will be only one killer found. I do not agree with those who contend two persons collaborated in this maniacal slaying.

"It's stretching coincidence too far to assume that two persons insane enough to commit this horrible deed would join forces in an enterprise so sadistic."

"Take that medicine for a few days and let me know if it does you any good—I've got the same complaint myself!"

The golden voiced orator of the Fulton Debating Society during his four years, 1912-1916, at Boston College, Joseph A. Scolponeti, Boston's new corporation counsel, is today one of the most persuasive attorneys to appear before the courts of this state.

JOSEPH A. SCOLPONETI

A lifelong friend and colleague of Mayor Curley, Scolponeti served as assistant corporation counsel in Curley's last term as mayor, 1930-34. When Curley was elected governor, "Joe" was appointed legal counsel to the state banking department in the liquidation of closed banks, and later was named a member of the Boston Finance Committee.

In every campaign Curley has undertaken, Scolponeti was one of the most loyal of his supporters, addressing rallies, making radio addresses and doing all in his power for "the Chief."

In 1929, while he was assistant district attorney, Scolponeti married Katherine McCarron of Roxbury, who once played the role of Claudia in "Pilate's Daughter." They make their home now on May st., Jamaica Plain, and have two daughters.

The new legal boss of the city was graduated from St. Peter's parochial school, Dorchester, Boston College High School and then went to "the Heights." After graduation he studied at Harvard and Georgetown, and received a law degree from Boston University Law School in 1920.

Pope Accuses Reds Of War on Church

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 19 (INS)—Pope Pius XII, in an encyclical made public today, accused Russia of persecuting Catholics in the Western Ukraine.

The encyclical was issued to the bishops of the world on the 350th anniversary of the union of the Ruthenian Church to the Church of Rome, Dec. 23, 1595. It charged the Soviet with persevuting the faithful and arresting all "bishops and very many priests, and prohibiting everyone from assuming direction of the faithful" in that area.

The sovereign pontiff also took occasion to lament the fact that Patriarch Alexis, head of the Russian Orthodox Church, incited Ruthenian faithfuls to defection from the Catholic Church.

In lamenting "wounds" inflicted by reports of the persecution, the Pope expressed deep disappointment at the contraction of religious freedom, adding, "especially because the church always incited its adherents to loyalty toward legitimate civil authorities."

10 Reds Prefer Death to Home

By CARL QUIGLEY
International News Ser vice Staff Correspondent

FRANKFURT, Jan. 19 (INS)—Ten Russians, about to be repatriated to their native land, committed suicide today at Dachau.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commanding general of U. S. Forces in Europe, said 21 other hospitalized members of the group totaling 217 refused to board the train.

U. S. troops used tear gas to get them aboard.

The ten Russians killed themselves by cutting their throats and hanging.

The Russians were all men. They refused two days ago to leave the U. S. zone and demanded U. S. troops shoot them.

They all wore German uniforms and barricaded themselves in their barracks this morning. When U. S. troops threw tear gas grenades through the windows, the prisoners set the building afire.

When the troops entered, they found the men hanging, their wrists and throats slashed by razor blades.

McNarney said:

"As part of the agreement between the Soviet Union and the United States entered into at Yalta, the policy of the U. S. government has been to facilitate the early repatriation of former Soviet citizens.

"More than 2,000,000 already have been repatriated from western Germany, leaving perhaps less than 20,000 in the U. S. zone.

"Although this program of repatriation may, in some cases, involve the use of force—which in certain isolated instances may result, through fear and hysteria, in self-destruction—it is necessary.

"The U. S. government's policy is firm and clear, as theater commander, my orders have been to carry out the government's decisions."

Only White Rajah To Join Britain

LONDON, Jan. 19—The world's only white rajah, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, 71-year-old ruler of Sarawak, North Borneo rubber state, has agreed to bring his "kingdom" into the British Empire, it was announced today.

Brooke, absolute ruler of 500,000 natives and 500 whites, will turn his domain into a crown colony and retain his title as rajah.

Sarawak came into the Brooke family in 1840 when the Sultan of Borneo gave it to Sir James Brooke, a merchant mariner, who subdued an attack by head hunters.

Brooke has three glamorous daughters, the most famous being Princess Baba, wife of the former British wrestler, Bob Gregory. Another daughter, Princess Pearl, married Harry Roy, English bandleader.

Fire engines were summoned and Chief Franz said the blaze was caused by a short circuit that heated wires in the hood, igniting an anti-freeze solution.

Curley Case

Life Magazine concerning the defendant Curley? Was it brought to your attention by anyone?"

Again receiving no reply from any of the jurors, the justice added:

"I assume by your silence your answer is no. I want to express my appreciation to you for the attentive manner you have displayed throughout this case. I advise that you do not discuss this case with anyone unless at the direction of the court itself. Do not do it with anyone outside. If the occasion should come for an examination into it, that will be done by the court itself. You are excused. You will leave the courthouse and its environs immediately."

After the jurors departed, Justice Proctor asked attorneys if they had anything to say and, at the request of Atty. Leahy, the six defense and two federal attorneys held a bench conference with the judge.

During the seven-week trial of the defendants as members of Engineers Group, Inc., some 173 exhibits were submitted in evidence by the government to prove that Curley, Smith and Fuller had conspired to defraud contractors and builders on promises of securing war contracts.

The trial started last November shortly after Curley was elected Mayor of Boston in the greatest victory of his long and turbulent political career. A recess in the hearing was taken to permit Curley to be sworn in as Boston's mayor on Jan. 7.

Fifty-two witnesses testified for the government against the three defendants, who did not take the stand in their own defense. All three men were listed as former officials of Engineers Group, a firm which the government contended had "through fantastic lies" obtained over $60,000 from clients by representing it could obtain government contracts for them. Most of this money, the prosecution charged, had been spent to "get more suckers."

Curley was president of the group and, the government contended, helped "steer" prospective victims to Washington. Smith was treasurer for a short time and was alleged to have held that office while $20,000 was taken in. Fuller, who was brought here from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for the trial, was executive vice president.

Hirohito Gives Away 3 Palaces

TOKYO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito was granted permission by Gen. MacArthur today to give away three palaces, worth nearly $1,000,000.

Hakone Palace, valued at $267,000, goes to Kanagawa prefecture, Hama Palace, worth $390,000 to the city of Tokyo, and Muko Palace, $320,000, to the city of Kobe.

Kimmel Says Pearl Alert At All Times

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—R. Adm. Husband E. Kimmel today said Hawaiian defenders held "exercises designed to meet any eventuality" right up to the time of the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

Resuming his testimony before the joint investigating committee, Kimmel, 1941 commander of the Pacific Fleet, differed with Rep. Murphy (D.) of Pennsylvania, as to whether intercepted Jap messages showed the Russian port of Vladivostok was better prepared against attack.

Murphy read into the record a secret Jap message of July 5, 1941, from Vladivostok, saying the Russians were conducting exercises to take care of "any eventuality."

Kimmel contended Hawaiian exercises designed to meet any eventuality had continued to the moment of the Dec. 7, 1941 attack.

Murphy, commenting the Hawaiian defenders weren't doing a lot of things, including air raid drills and reconnaissance, also read into the record various messages showing Jap interest in the Panama Canal and its defenses.

100-Lb. Sugar Theft Laid to 2 Hub Men

A Brighton taxicab driver and a Roxbury man faced Roxbury court today on charges of breaking and entering a bakery and stealing 100 pounds of sugar.

The pair were arrested by Patrolman John G. Sullivan as they stood in the doorway of a Dudley st. bakery, the sack of sugar near them.

7 Killed in Greek Reprisal Slayings

ATHENS, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Ministry of Public Order reported seven persons killed and five wounded in reprisal for the slaying near Sparta Wednesday of the president of a monarchist organization, his 6-year-old son and two other persons.

'OPA' in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Jan. 19 (AP)—American forces in Shanghai will pay less for borsch (soup) under the new Army-Navy ceiling price list—but the sky is the limit on baked Alaska. That dessert luxury was removed from the list because so few places serve it.

Borsch came down from 675 Chinese dollars to 550, about 40 cents American. The coffee ceiling was lowered from 450 to 350, around 25 cents.

Failure to observe ceilings results in loss of "in bounds" signs for Shanghai eating places.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I would appreciate information as to how I could get my financee to the States from Australia. We plan to get married here immediately following her arrival. I also have the necessary $500 bond which I understand must be posted? J. H. L., Brockton.

A—The initial steps must be taken by your fiancee. Instruct her to contact the nearest U. S. Consul in her country and request a visitor's visa which is good for a period of six months. Transportation must be obtained through commercial agencies. Government does not provide fiancee transportation. After marriage here it would be necessary for her to re-enter country for legal permanent residence. That can be arranged through local immigration authorities. Re-entry may be made through Canada.

Q—Will you please give me information concerning 639th A. A. A. Bn. My brother wrote that he was leaving France Dec. 4th and we haven't heard since? M. S., Cambridge.

A—Sorry, but I have no information on above unit. Also due to present conditions on shipment of veterans back to the States it is impossible to get definite data.

Q—My husband was released from service about a month ago and now receives $20 weekly unemployment benefit. Will that be deducted from a future bonus the government might award. Also how about the subsistence money ($90 monthly) he would receive if he decided to return to school? M. K., Boston.

A—Money paid by government under GI Bill benefits will not be deducted from any future bonus under provisions of the recently amended GI Bill.

Q—Are men who enlisted after the war ended eligible to wear World War II veteran buttons after discharge? How about Spanish War Vets who enlisted after conflict ended? G. R. T., Belmont.

A—The answer is yes on your first question. War not officially ended. On the last question contact Spanish-American War Veterans Headquarters, State House, Boston.

Sugar Price Rise Due in 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The price of sugar is going up slightly next month.

But the increase of about seven-tenths of a cent a pound—coupled with a possible minor rise in meat prices and perhaps a six-cent boost for butter—may end the upward swing in food costs for many months to come.

The sugar hike, to become effective about Feb. 2, will permit the government to keep its promise of higher prices for this year's crop.

New Shows Due Here Soon

William Cahn's production of the A. B. Shiffrin comedy, "I Like It Here," with Oscar Karlweis, Beverly Bayne, Bill Terry, Mardi Bryant and Donald Randolph, will premiere at the Wilbur on Feb. 18, and remain for a fortnight's engagement pre-Broadway.

Charles K. Freeman has been signed to direct and Ralph Alswang to design the setting.

A new musical comedy, "St. Louis Woman," will open at the Shubert on Monday, Feb. 18, before its Broadway premiere. It is presented by Edward Gross, who gave the theater "Chicken Every Sunday."

The authors of the musical are Arna Bontemps and the late Countee Cullen, Negro poet. It derives from a novel by Mr. Bontemps called "God Sends Sunday." The music is by Harold Arlen, the lyrics by Johnny Mercer.

The action takes place at the turn of the century and depicts a carefree community interested in horses, racing, dancing and convivial living.

Heading the cast of singers and dancers are Ruby Hill, the Nicholas Brothers, Rex Ingram.

'Journey Together' Held Over 2d Week

"Journey Together," starring Edward G. Robinson, is being held for a second week at both the Old South and Tremont Theaters.

Robinson truly turns in Academy Award winning role in this new, gripping action drama of the RAF.

Co-featured are the East Side kids in "Come Out Fighting."

Posturing and posing in the burlesque theaters for the ensuing week are Valerie Parks, Howard; Mary Lane, Casino, and Myrna Dean, Globe. All are beauteous and gay.

Cambridge Nuptials

SUZANNE ECKFELDT of Belmont whose bright ideas for dolling up her dormitory room at Bennington College won national attention in a House Beautiful article, has a head start on interior decorating plans for the home she will establish as the bride of Edward P. Harding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Austin Harding of Chestnut Hill.

Susie and Eddie are being married this afternoon in Christ Church, Cambridge, with a reception at the Cambridge Boat Club. The bride is the daughter of Maj. Gen. Roger W. Eckfeldt, former commanding officer of the Yankee Division, and Mrs. Eckfeldt of Belmont. Given in marriage by her father she is wearing white satin with a tulle veil and carrying gardenias and white orchids.

Mrs. Paul A. Lyons

Nancy Ring of Medford who was her room-mate at Bennington and helped think up the tricky inexpensive stunts for transforming their dormitory room into something gay and unusual enough to attract the House Beautiful editors, is maid of honor at today's wedding.

The bridesmaids are Jane Alles, Alice Foss and Rita Marean of Cambridge, and Barbara Emerson of Brookline. All of the attendants are wearing full skirted gowns of Indies pink taffeta with coronets and bouquets of deeper pink roses.

Francis A. "Austie" Harding Jr., former Harvard hockey star and brother of the groom, is best man. Another brother, Goodwin Harding, is an usher with the bride's brothers Lt. Roger W. Eckfeldt, Jr., and Robert T. Eckfeldt. Also ushering are Stephen Glidden, William Glidden, Lt. (j.g.) Paul F. Perkins, Jr., and William MacAusland.

After graduating from Buckingham School Susie attended Bennington and is now a student at Boston University majoring in psychology. During her long vacation from Bennington she taught first grade at Buckingham. Her bridegroom graduated from Noble and Greenough and Harvard '45.

MR. AND MRS. Paul A. Lyons (Patricia Phelan) arrived from New York last evening for a whirl of partying before the wedding of Jean Evatt and Gifford Kingsbury Simonds, Jr.

DISILLUSIONED GI'S

TO THE EDITOR OF BOSTON AMERICAN:

SCARCELY ONE year ago, in the Ardennes Bulge, a hopelessly outnumbered, outgunned and surrounded division of American troops faced annihilation.

The dead were unburied, the wounded in large numbers could be given only emergency treatment, food and ammunition were running low and no one knew from which direction the Nazi tanks would break through the curtain of snow for the final kill.

To the German demand for surrender General McAulifee returned the terse and definitive answer, "NUTS."

These men fought for that precious thing called freedom.

On innumerable battlefields of Europe, Africa, Asia and the South Sea Islands; in the Arctic and in the Tropics; on land, on sea and in the air millions of young men born in a free land sweated and toiled, swore and prayed as they fought their hearts out to give to all people that precious thing called freedom.

For them the horrible nightmare had no other meaning.

Day after day, week after week and month after month they had been subjected to the greatest deluge of propaganda ever generated in the history of mankind, summoning them to the holy war for the precious thing called freedom.

They thrilled as their homeland was turned into the "Arsenal of Democracy."

They cheered the mortgaging, not only of their future, but that of their children and their children's children, to obtain the funds to furnish the munitions of war for all the crusaders.

They marched off to training camps, slightly bewildered but trusting the leadership of the nation and determined that they were going to finish the job their fathers thought they had finished twenty-five years before.

SURELY—thought these young Americans—the politicians had learned something, surely there was a real intention to keep the pledge of liberty for all peoples and nations, surely no so-called statesman would ever again be a party to betraying the pledges when the victory was achieved this time.

WHERE AND WHEN COULD YOU EVER FIND YOUTH SO SUSCEPTIBLE TO IDEALISM, MORE ROMANTICALLY INCLINED AND SO NAIVE AND IGNORANT IN JUDGING POLITICIANS?

The American G. I. has seen the kind of Four Freedoms bestowed upon Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Greece, Yugoslavia, Finland, Iran, Indonesia, India, Burma and other nations.

He knows that the very nations he fought to save are using the very equipment that was made possible by the mortgage on his children to perpetuate the very conditions which precipitated World War I and World War II.

He knows that European politicians are conspiring to undermine the only constructive move toward freedom that has emerged from the fog of postwar chicanery and power politics—the administration of Japan by MacArthur.

THE PLAIN TRUTH IS THE AMERICAN G. I. KNOWS NOW THAT OUR POLITICIANS HAVE SACRIFICED PRINCIPLE FOR EXPEDIENCY; THAT THEY HAVE BEEN BLUFFED, CAJOLED AND OUTMANEUVERED BY IMPERIALISTIC NATIONS THAT EXIST ONLY BECAUSE WE MADE IT POSSIBLE FOR THEM TO LIVE.

WHAT IMPUDENCE for politicians to say THE G. I. IS INJURING AMERICAN PRESTIGE!

At Tehran, Yalta, Potsdam and Moscow our POLITICIANS threw away the overwhelming prestige which American armed forces had won by their invincible arms and unbreakable spirit.

Of course, the G. I. wants to come home. He is disillusioned.

And his answer to the double-talking politicians is, "NUTS."

No longer mourn for me, when
I am dead,
Then you shall hear the
surly sullen bell
Give warning to the world that
I am fled
From this vile world, with vilest worms to dwell;
Nay, if you read this line, remember not
The hand that writ it, for I love you so,
That I in your sweet thoughts
would be forgot,
If thinking on me then
should make you woe.
—SHAKESPEARE.

DURING World War II 24 per cent of all men called for service were rejected for physical reasons. Of the country boys, those brought up on farms, 41 per cent were rejected for physical reasons. This appears to prove my oft repeated claim that, generally speaking, city bred lads are stronger and healthier than the country boys.

AMONG THE THINGS I would like to see and hear is Jimmy Durante's interpretation of Hamlet's soliloquy . . . As for ham and eggs I like them cooked country style with hashed-brown potatoes on the side . . . I still claim that a man who smokes a good cigar in a holder doesn't deserve to have a good cigar . . . The most potent of all cocktails is the Martini cocktail. On this, all experienced bartenders are agreed . . . Am asked who was the famous golfer who went around an 18-hole course in 69 strokes on his 69th birthday. That was Sandy Herd, the British professional.

MULES AND MEN: Viewed with interest by our Mules and Men Department is an observation on husband-handling by Dr. Louis M. Bisch. The good doctor says most men are inclined to become a little gay when reaching the age of 50, but it is a mistake for their wives to try to restrain or restrict the old boys. The thing to do is to give the middle aged husband a little rope. He won't hang himself. After a period he will tire of the gay life and throw the rope away. Or so says Dr. Bisch, who further states as to the fiftyish husbands: "Take him to places where there are women. Also, have parties in your own home. Let him dance, joke and flirt with the girls. Consider his behavior as a necessary evil that needs must be reckoned with when a man is in the middle years of life's span. Watch him with the same tender, motherly solicitude you employed with your children when they were very young." (Note: Keep this in mind, lady. If you surprise your middle-aged husband enjoying an armful of blonde don't get angry. Just say tenderly: "Hello, Darlingkins! Playing postoffice again? Having fun?")

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Am I right in saying that just previous to his hit in the "The Music Master," David Warfield was a knockabout comedian at Weber & Fields Music Hall? A—Warfield was a comedian with Weber & Fields but his first dramatic play after that engagement was "The Auctioneer." That was in 1901. It was not until 1904 that he appeared in "The Music Master." An interesting thing about Warfield is, though he has the reputation of being one of the great actors in American theatrical history, he only starred in one real hit play in his life . . . That was "The Music Master." "The Auctioneer" was only fairly successful.

THAT DOG AGAIN: Black and white Springer spaniels seem to have an irresistible attraction for beautiful women. No matter where I take our dog for a walk at least one glamor girl pauses to pat his noble head and stroke his back. On these occasions he always wags his tail. But the better looking the woman is, the more vigorously he wags his tail. A remarkable animal!

PASSING BY: Ann Pennington. The danseuse with the dimpled knees. She is still dancing. An extremely frank person, Ann recently stated: "I am 53 years old." Imagine Ann Pennington being 53! Oh, time, why do you march on the way you do? You're breaking my heart! Miss Pennington, a Camden, N. J., girl, made her first hit in "The Ziegfeld Follies of 1913." After that she appeared regularly in the annual edition of the Follies until George White persuaded her to appear in his "Scandals of 1919."

Ann Pennington

SIDELIGHT: Michael Angelo said the ideal height and weight for a woman is five feet eight inches and 130 pounds.

"I've come to get my girl—she's dressed as a butterfly!"

WASHINGTON SCENE

By George Dixon

Distributed by King Features Synd. Reproduction Prohibited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Former Rep. Cal Johnson of Illinois was in a mood of mellow reminiscence one night recently. He got to talking of his days in Congress and his many pleasant associations on Capitol Hill.

S. Crowther

Turning to me, he said:

"You had a piece recently about the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House, in which you mentioned the annual Memorial Services for departed Congressmen—meaning those who had been removed by the Grim Reaper, and not by the voters.

"I recall those services with deep poignancy. They were always very impressive. But I remember one which particularly sticks in my memory.

"I took a visiting lady constituent to this particular service.

"Dr. Montgomery delivered a stirring sermon. Among the spectators in the gallery there were many wet eyes. My lady guest seemed deeply affected.

"After it was over, and we were walking back to my office, I said:

"'What did you think of the services?'

"'Oh,' she replied, 'they were very nice. But I enjoyed them much more last year. More Congressmen had died.'"

I HAVE JUST received a letter from Samuel Crowther, 3d, who is a distinguished writer and the son of a distinguished writer. His missive, at first glance, seems highly flattering, but on second reading I began to suspect there might be an undercurrent of sarcasm.

For that reason, and also because it takes up space, I am reproducing it in the hope that you will be able to decide whether there is any ground for my suspicions. The letter:

"MY DEAR GEORGE: From time to time in the confines of your column—the name of which escapes me for the moment—you have commented on matters scientific with such consummate skill that the millions of your readers, who each day slap down their hard-earned pennies for the privilege of reading it, have come to regard you as practically the final authority on outstanding new developments in the scientific world.

"As a matter of fact there are some who go to the extreme of relying entirely on your column for all their news of important new advances. It may interest you to know that in my own case, by following this practice, I have just found out about the atomic bomb.

"You are no doubt familiar with the far-reaching effects on history of such outstanding events as the celebrated observations of Sir Isaac Newton on the fall of the apple, Greer Garson's discovery of radium, and the formation of The Society for the Prevention of Calling Sleeping Porters George. But all of these historical milestones—world shaking as they were—vanish into the vale of insignificance when compared with this remarkable achievement.

"What is it? Are you ready?

"It is a machine which makes it possible for a hundred men to do the work of one!"

CONTINUES this dubious flatterer, Mr. Crowther:

"Now, while you are picking yourself off the floor and before you dust off the seat of your pants, let us for a moment speculate on its enormous future possibilities—although its advantages are so obvious that they really need no explaining.

"It means the complete abolition of unemployment and the means by which the 60 million job program may be realized. As soon as these machines can be produced in sufficient quantity, all will have to be done in the future to prevent unemployment at any given time will be to install in factories around the country the number of machines necessary to make up the job deficiency.

"It's as simple as all that!

"Of course, it will probably be unwise to leave the manufacture of these machines up to the whims and fancies of the private enterprise system. Consequently, some sort of a government control board will have to be placed in charge of its administration.

"Therefore, in view of your knowledge of government procedure, I wonder whether or not you would care to take the matter up as soon as possible with the proper authorities in Washington and I will pass on to the inventor, as soon as he is sober, the results of your investigations."

I WISH I could make up my mind about that Crowther. This awful indecision!

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19 — Can't think of any child star who has bridged adolescence on the screen more successfully than Roddy McDowall. The Jackies, Cooper and Coogan, and Freddy Bartholomew, all had to take time out. But Roddy is 16, and has not missed a single movie beat.

Now he is getting ready to go through his first agonizing puppy love affair in "The Green Grass of Wyoming" and the juvenile recipient of his affections is Jane Powell, borrowed from MGM.

Roddy McDowall

"The Green Grass of Wyoming" was written by Mary O'Hara, who also authored those two previous hits of 20th, "My Friend Flicka" and "Son of Flicka." They paid off win, place and show at the box office and you can make a little bet in the future book that this sequel to the "Flickas" will do the same. Rita Johnson and Preston Foster are the "grownups" in the goings-on.

RONALD COLMAN'S visits to the Warner lot fooled a lot of people last week. The rumor was all over town he was quietly testing for "Life With Father." Tain't true. Ronnie is going to star in C. S. Forrester's tall adventure tale, "Captain Hornblower," a story that has been in the Warner vaults a long, long time. I hope it gives him a chance to be amusing as well as his usual dashing romantic self. I thought Ronnie was very funny tossing laughs back and forth with Jack Benny on the air.

CONSTANCE MOORE is doing all right at Republic. I must say she's one of the prettiest girls in our town and one of the best dressed—even though Orry-Kelly didn't say so. She's just made a new deal with Republic to star in "Golden Tide," by Vingie Roe, a story of early California and the gold rush. Papa Yates told Connie it would give her a chance to wear some of the clothes of the period and, as I said, Connie looks well in almost anything.

JOAN CRAWFORD, one of the Hollywood actresses who never appears in public in careless attire, looked particularly glamorous at Louis B. Mayer's dinner. Everything seems to be coming Joan's way these days. Just heard the Biltmore Theater has been leased for a month for a revival of Noel Coward's "Design for Living," and Joan has been asked to play the girl. Clifton Webb, who was on the New York stage, and Rex Harrison, who played it in London, are the two actors chosen. That's one play I want to see again, and I speak for tickets right now.

VERY EXCITING will be the inaugural trip of the American Airlines to Stockholm. Margaret Ettinger and Signe Hasso will be aboard when the airship leaves New York Feb. 20. In 24 hours—just think of it—they will be in Stockholm! Maggie will spend a week in London and then fly back. The new ship is a DC-4. It seats 24 people and has all the luxuries of an ocean liner, plus a few new ones. Sounds wonderful! Wish I were going over with the girls.

A BUNCH of traveling salesgirls are on their way to give the farmers' sons something to whistle at, to say nothing of the editors of the country. Can't you see what will happen when glamor-puss Anita Colby walks in to try to place copy for "Duel in the Sun" and Florence Pritchett gives a fast sales talk on why newspapers should run copy on the same picture, and Inga Arvard does her talking and Laura Wells from New York ditto—all four of them beauties? Even the hard-boiled editor isn't going to throw that copy in the wastebasket, not while the girls are looking on—or he is looking at the girls! All the girls have a wardrobe to knock your eye out.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Janet Blair denies the continued gossip about any rift with Lou Bush. There's talk, talk, talk, but they have rented a house at Palm Springs and, in spite of all the rumors, she should know; Judy Garland has rented Fannie Brice's house at the beach while carpenters build a nursery for her expected baby; David Niven's family gets here in five weeks and we'll be glad to meet them. I hear so many nice things about his wife; Dorothy Lamour's son, John Ridgley, sent his first corsage to a girl. She is a young lady born the same day he was and on the card was written "Welcome to This Great Big Beautiful World;" Greer Garson is down with flu; first honors go to L. B. Mayer for the most beautifully appointed dinner of the season. Fifty-two people sat at one long table, colorfully decorated with red, white and blue flowers. L. B. is such a gracious host and saw to it that each of his guests had a happy time. It's really an art to know how to be a good host and L. B. is one of the best in this or any other town.

RACE FANS will be happy to know Busher is expected to be ready to race in the spring; Kitty Spiegel is entertaining her in-laws, the M. Spiegels of Chicago. Mrs. Spiegel wrote the book from which "My Reputation" is taken; Robert Coote, lunching with Lee and Herbert Marshall, greeted old friends. He's been with the RCAF five and a half years and will soon be back in pictures; J. Arthur Rank is bidding for the "Bloomer Girl" for a picture; Diana Lynn, who is an accomplished pianist, has been invited to the President's Ball in Washington. She's practicing like mad in case the President, who likes music, asks her to play; Rita Hayworth is in the desert getting some rest.

Boston After Dark

THE TOWN WAS TALKING almost exclusively, around the night club and hotel room ringsides as the midnight hour approached, of the outcome of the Curley trial . . . The jury's verdict spread like wildfire . . . It was greeted by gasps and a diminuendo of chatter, it seemed . . . The collective emotion undoubtedly was one of sympathy for the Boston Mayor.

EARLIER in the evening, the fatal airplane crash near Cheshire, Ct., had been the chief topic of conversation . . . As always, there followed in the wake of the catastrophe those stories of near misses by this or that passenger.

NEWSPAFERMEN throughout the country, and in the Hearst service particularly, will be overjoyed by the news that one "near miss" was experienced by Walter Howey, editor of the Hearst papers in Boston and of the American Weekly Magazine, with the largest circulation in the world . . . Mr. Howey, accompanied by his lovely wife, Gloria, and their small son, William R. (Billy) Howey, were just one plane away from the one which crashed in flames and killed 17 persons.

Another authentic "near miss" was that of an executive of Universal Pictures, who was due at the Ritz-Carlton for a luncheon party in his honor . . . He couldn't get space on the plane which was due here at 11:45 a. m., just in time for the luncheon . . . He telephoned from New York and said he would be a little late because he had been disappointed in getting a seat on the plane he wished to board . . . When he arrived an hour later than he intended and heard the news of the crash, the visiting movie man just slumped into a chair and heaved one long "Wh-e-e-w!"

MIKE TODD'S party to the press and friends—or should we say the press and other friends?—was a typical Todd party, which means that everything was of the best . . . The buffet dinner which the producer of "January Thaw," "The Would-Be Gentlen an" and "Hamlet" spread for his guests was different and bountiful . . . Most producers limit their hospitality to cocktails and highballs . . . Not Michael . . . Everyone stayed for that dinner. (It was in the Ritz French Room, incidentally.)

HAVE YOU TRIED the pastry at the Fox and Hounds? . . . Please, do . . . if Eddie Davis, the boss, ever made a good investment (and he's made very few bad ones), the one in which he engaged his pastry chef must rate with the best . . . Boston night clubs and even its finer restaurants are notably shy on serving appetizing desserts . . . You takes yer cherce of ice cream (one flavor generally) or cheese and crackers!

JACK LARKIN of the Red Coach Grill, one of the best restaurateurs in the business, has a reason for the lack of pastries on his menus . . . Jack believes that sweets after dinner dull the appetites of discerning customers, and cause them to neglect a cordial or maybe two cordials . . . And Mr. Larkin, an epicure and bon vivant, theorizes that no dinner is complete without a sniff of some liqueur to aid digestion.

AUSTEN LAKE'S readers—and that means the unanimous subscription to this newspaper—will recall his interesting stories of the famed 101st Airborne Division and its tremendous casualties . . . Well, one of the returned heroes of that doughty outfit is Sgt. Henry Wall of Ardale st., Roslindale . . . Sgt. Wall is so modest that he balked successfully against the sound notion that his photograph should appear in the paper.

IN THE HOPE that he is not allergic to a few lines in print, we would like to identify him as a son of the late Deputy Supt. Ben Wall of the Boston police . . . The news is that he intends to follow in his father's path, and will take the next examinations for the police force . . . Two other Wall boys are still in service . . . Capt. Ben Wall, U. S. A., is in Paris, and the other soldier-brother, John, is in the Pacific.

A TIP TO FLORIDA-bound motorists: Make a point of having the outskirts of the city of Melbourne, which is north of Vero Beach and south of Daytona, a stopping place for at least a meal, and if possible, for an overnight visit . . . The Castaways' Club is the name of the recommended destination.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Marilyn Maxwell and John Conte have separated again. Decided the reconciliation was a mistake . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce alleges the uniformed gentleman taking her to the joints these evenings is a platonic pal. She and her bridegroom are very much in love, she says, but he can't get reservations out of California, and she can't get them out of New York . . . Allyn McLerie, the dancer who took over Sono Osato's role in "On the Town," has also taken over Adolph Green's heart . . . The small son of one of the most famous names ever to hit movie marquees is very ill and all but destitute. The mother of the child is supporting it on $50 a month; the famous father gets $1500 a week . . . The Democratic party will seek Jimmy Walker's active aid in the New York State campaign this fall. He may be put in charge of radio publicity . . . Paul Allen, a click as Frankie Carle's singing star, will leave the band in a few weeks to study for the Met. Frankie thinks it's a foolish decision, but has given his blessing.

THE PLANNED Golden Anniversary of Burlesque is hitting snags because many of the current top-notch stars are reluctant to reveal their show business origin . . . Sonja Henie and Dan Topping are using the same lawyer . . . Martha Raye's solid noncancellable contract for 14 weeks at the Carnival will net her $70,000—an all-time high in the history of night clubs . . . TWO WEEKS DOWN and two more to go. Everybody's happy . . . we hope . . . as happy as the many who have taken time out to express astonishing joy and recount glad tidings of their wonderful progress. We certainly didn't anticipate a meat shortage due to strikes when we instituted this diet series, in which case, if you find it difficult to obtain the meat order for the day . . . the only alternative we have to offer is fish. However, the lean fish is adequate in so far as its protein content is concerned.

It hasn't got the vitamin content that meats have and which are so necessary to the physical well-being of a person. Therefore, if you find yourself short of meat and must substitute fish . . . it would be advisable to take a well-known brand of vitamin B complex to supplement the deficiency.

And now into the mail bag for more answers to more queries as far as space allows.

K. S., of Boston

—Have had plenty of diets from doctors, but this one beats them all. Never hungry, full of pep and you just lose weight. You don't feel cranky either. Can this 28-day-diet be repeated at the end of the period without ill effects? A—Yes, if you are still overweight, for with excess poundage there are still calories to spare. As a matter of fact, 4321 calories are stored in the body for each excess pound. It's when you've scraped the weight barrel clean, when you've achieved the proper weight level for your age, height and frame, that the limits of this restrictive diet may be expanded.

M. W., of Boston:

Q—My sister and I are forced to eat all our meals in restaurants. We cannot always find bouillon and they offer consomme. Is it the same in calorie count? A—Yes.

Q—And when not able to get cream of spinach, they may have cream of asparagus, mushroom or cream of tomato. Now are these the same as cream of spinach, or higher? A—About the same, so the swap may be made without qualms.

Q—Is there a difference in calorie value if the roast beef is hot or cold? A—Yes. Hot roast beef exuding its own juicy gravy is higher in calorie value, since the juice has a calorie value of its own. When the meat is drained of its juice and is cold, the gelatinized gravy within the meat retains vitamin value but loses calorie value.

J. V., of South Boston:

Q—Would it be permissable to take a glass of grapefruit juice, unsweetened, upon arising in the morning, between meals, or before going to bed? I am wondering if grapefruit holds calories, if it is fattening or if it will interfere with my diet. A—Grapefruit or grapefruit juice have calorie value as the diet specifies. It is not fattening. But if you take it in addition to the fruits and juices the diet specifies you will simply be adding more calories to the daily total we have allowed for in the series, and increasing the fruit intake ratio.

Are you beginning to look slim for that happy-ever-after figure climax? And are those scales beginning to take a beating? They should by now. And are you proud of your will power? We hope you've shown those doubting Thomasinas that you could do it!

In Monday's Boston Evening American we'll indicate your proper weight in relation to your age, height and build

14th Day

BREAKFAST

- 1 medium tangerine (50 calories)
- 1 soft boiled egg (75 calories)
- 1 slice rye toast (75 calories)
- 1 tsp. butter (50 calories)
- Coffee or tea, clear (0 calories)

LUNCH

- 1 cup cream of mushroom soup (110 calories)
- Sandwich, 2 slices lean corn beef on 1 slice bread (170 calories)
- 1 medium baked apple (100 calories)

DINNER

- ½ cup tomato juice (50 calories)
- 2 slices broiled calf's liver (134 calories)
- 2-3 cup broccoli (30 calories)
- 1 cup junket (200 calories)

Give Shower Now For Vet's Bride

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My cousin's fiance has just returned from overseas. They are to be married just as soon as my cousin's brother returns from the Navy. Do you think it would be all right if a shower were given for her now, in a week or two, even though her wedding date isn't definite?

S. N.

Yes, I see no reason why the shower shouldn't be given now, and I think it might well be more convenient to have it now rather than later when, after her brother's return, her days will probably be filled with hurried plans for the wedding. The fact that her wedding date isn't definitely set needn't make any difference in the shower plans.

Spaghetti Sandwich Easy To Prepare, Popular Dish

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

SIMPLE CASSEROLE DISHES and savory soups for lunch and dinner will tide us over this period of meat shortage. Although fresh meats have disappeared temporarily, it's still possible to get some of the table-ready meats that taste so well in many combination dishes. Spaghetti sandwich is one of these flavorful dishes that your family will vote for immediately.

Like many other good spaghetti dishes, spaghetti sandwich combines the distinct flavors of tomato, onion, green pepper and cheese with creamy spaghetti. Easy-to-prepare table-ready meat gives this baked sandwich its spicy flavor. A bit of one of the several good meat flavorings adds extra flavor to this tempting main dish.

Baked Spaghetti Sandwich in a family-sized casserole for dad and the youngsters. At buffet dinners calling for food-for-many, double the recipe to meet the occasion and bake the spaghetti mixture in large pans.

SPAGHETTI SANDWICH

1 tbsp. salt
3 qts. boiling water
¼ ounces spaghetti
1½ tsp salt
1 12-oz. can table-ready meat
1½ cups cooked tomatoes
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. meat flavoring
½ cup grated American cheese

Add salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti and continue boiling until spaghetti is tender (about 12 minutes). Drain and rinse spaghetti. While spaghetti is cooking cut meat into ½-inch cubes. Combine meat, tomatoes, onion, green pepper, salt, pepper and meat flavoring. Place half the spaghetti in greased 1½-quart casserole. Pour meat-vegetable sauce over spaghetti and cover with remaining spaghetti. Sprinkle cheese on spaghetti. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Rich flavorful noodle soups are as much in place served at the most distinguished banquets as they are at simple family gatherings. They are easy to prepare and delightful to eat. They are equally popular with the youngsters as they are with the oldsters, and folks look forward to a meal with noodle soup as either first course or main dish of the meal. A tasty tomato stock flavored with chicken and beef bouillon makes the elegant foundation for this noodle vegetable soup.

NOODLE CRUMBLE

1 tbsp. salt
3 qts. boiling water
¼ oz. fine noodles
1½ cups condensed mushroom soup (1 10½-oz. can)
1¼ cups milk
⅛ tsp. salt
⅔ cup flaked tuna fish (1 7-oz. can)
½ cup grated American cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Add 1 tbsp. salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add noodles and let boil until noodles are tender, about 4 minutes. Combine soup, milk and ¾ tsp. salt. Drain and rinse noodles. Spread half the noodles on bottom of greased quart casserole. Arrange tuna fish on noodles. Sprinkle cheese on fish and cover with remaining noodles. Pour mushroom soup mixture over noodles. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Makes about 4 servings.

WINTER RESORT garb at its smartest is this Josef Walker strapless all-occasion dress with cowl-shaped matching scarf for cover-up after a suntan. Low Heeled Shoes Popular BALLET SLIPPERS are becoming a staple part of the shoe wardrobe of female America. The soft-toe leather-soled ballet slipper has taken its place as a source of authentic shoe fashions . . . the inspiration not only for leisure wear . . . but for leather street and dress shoes.

Most popular versions of this dramatically successful style are concealed and visible wedge models . . . low-heeled street shoes . . . and . . . for formal wear . . . arched-sole slippers, like those worn by dancers. Slippers are also being interpreted in high-heeled, dressy strap models.

The fashionable derivatives of the ballet slipper retain the slipper's graceful "down-to-earth outline . . . but that isn't all. They utilize also the original slipper's delicate construction and sturdy leather sole . . . features which promote the foot-health and arch comfort that are the never-ceasing preoccupation of dancers.

The ballet slipper style . . . by its very nature . . . has every element for genuine and long-lasting popularity. Soft but sturdy leather construction gently supports the foot . . . keeps it cool and calm. The ballet shoe outline is young-looking, foot-flattering . . . in tune with the silhouette of dramatic simplicity to which today's fashions are turning.

Nation's Mood Toward Another Big Sport Orgy

By AUSTEN LAKE

IN BETWEEN BURSTS of diligence, strikes and depressions, the Americans are the most playful people on earth, with a fondness for games of all sorts and spending orgies before going flat broke and getting diligent again.

Austen Lake

So now, after a long period of hard toil, the people are suffering from a severe itch in the bankroll and in the mood to work abstemiously or lay down their tools and give their funds a fast gallop again.

It's the national mood which leads back to the era of the million-dollar fight gate, the vast horseshoes of howling humanity and the hero-worshiping mobs which stormed the box offices in the golden '20's and made such wealthy athletes as Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Red Grange and a horde of lesser apple-knockers and palookas.

This is the time to play and so, to refresh the memories of our citizens who have grown rusty in their fun, I will flip back the pages of Time and review some of the scenes from the last big sports hysteria, when every little flea-circus owner got rich, fat and sassy.

We Went Sport Wild!

THAT WAS THE DAY OF real baseball delirium like the time that Detroit won its maiden series title on Goose Goslin's victory single and the downtown areas of the city became a snowstorm of torn telephone books, the contents of looseleaf files and ticker-tape which the exultant folk chucked out of office windows till the air was stifled with floating fragments borne on updrafts like giant flakes. Traffic was clogged with boisterous people who mounted taxi tops and locked harassed horse-cops in their swirling press. And through the night, until early hours, the citizens tramped in a dense sidewalk parade, shaking rattles and dancing carnival capers.

And the day of the great hockey wars when the Bruins and Rangers fought 77 minutes to a Stanley Cup decision amid showers of fruit and hardware from the Garden's galleries. The merry Boston burghers came loaded down with vegetable matter, Chinese bombs, beer cans and hunks of metal and pipe. One enterprising gent arrived with an armful of breakfast food. Others with less imagination just heaved down newspapers and programs, timing their volleys so nicely that the ice crews barely had time to gather up one clutter before being showered with another.

And the day when George P. Marshall, the human hyacinth and owner of the pro football Redskins, kidnaped his team and disowned Boston as undeserving of so fine a civic asset. He called us "horse crazy Boston" and said "our sporting heritage had passed through the pari-mutuel window." So at the exact moment when he achieved recognition by winning the Eastern Seaboard championship he decided, if Boston people wished to see his athletes play for the world title, they would have to do so at the Polo Grounds and that henceforth he would set new roots in Washington. Our sport world was full of such quaint characters in those times.

And the days when lazy Louisville brewed its amiable and annual form of lunacy—the annual dementia called the Kentucky Derby when America's race royalty went to rub against frowsy folk and slick silks for the pious purpose of dipping a knee and bending an elbow in horse heaven. Louisville during race week was like emerging from the gray daylight of reason into the rose-gilded haze of an opium dream—a horse carnival where the inpouring horde forgot that it was squandering real money and let go with a self-abandoned souse which stood unrivalled in the national urge to be where the big things of sport occurred. And why? All for a two-minute horse race in which few saw more than a fleeting glimpse of the little monkey men as they fled past with their colored silks bubbling in the backdraft.

Danno, Irish Mat Myth

AND THE TIME WHEN Danno O'Mahoney, as Paul Bowser's freshly imported Irish mat myth stormed the ramparts of glory against Jimmy Londos, the former Greek stowaway named Christopher Theophile and wrestling millionaire. And amid the wild hysteria of the capacity house, Londos similated a swoon after being pressed against the platform and gave imitations of suffering a full money's worth to the throng which paid $3.50 for seats a full gunshot from the scaffold. So Danno, by courtesy of the copyright owners, won his way to rainbow gold and collected the last fragment of a title which had been scattered like confetti among some 10 or 15 champions of the world.

And the time when the little whaling hamlet of New London prettied itself up for the annual headache called the Yale-Harvard boat race and early comers began arriving two days before the event, including young and lusious females, and grizzled grads and male clothes horses who kept the nights alive with a miasma of music, laughter and the tinkle of ice in tall glasses. It was an era when both maids and swains were win-lose-or-draw drinkers who swallowed their Volstead doses in celebration or consolation and achieved an equal state of gladness either way.

And the time when Max Baer, as the last of a long line of undistinguished fight champions, made trips to Boston to shake the local sugar bush for some easy profits and was buying back pieces of his person, which in tighter money times, he had pawned to various investors as he needed ready cash. Another guy would have hocked his watch or his overcoat but Max put up a 5 per cent hunk of himself for as little as $200 and gave the buyer a receipt. So when it came time to buy back all his pieces it cost him $250,000 and another $75,000 in lawyers fees.

So those were only a tiny peepshow at the marvels, mysteries and monkey business that went on in our last big national play demention. Only this time, for lack of fluid funds, it may not take so long to shake the bangles off the Christmas tree and reach the pink elephant stage. We may get down to diligence a little quicker! Who knows!

There are still plenty of good seats available for the Silver Skates Derby at the Garden a week from Sunday. They are popular priced at $1, 50c and 35c (tax included).

Tickets may be secured at the Garden, Arena or James W. Brine Sporting Goods Store at 92 Summer st.

Our Bruins Can Knock Canadiens Off Peak

By BILL GRIMES

For the first time in three years, Les Canadiens have been maneuvered into a spot, whereby they can be ousted from first place in the N.H.L. race. And, the Bruins can do the ousting tonight by beating the Canucks in Montreal.

It's possible for the N. H. L. race to undergo some drastic changes over the week-end. The Detroit Red Wings, who are in fourth place, are only two points behind the Canadiens and Blackhawks, who are deadlocked as the pacemakers.

Paul Bibeault

The Rossmen are but a half game away from the league leaders. So, a victory tonight over the Canucks in the Montreal Forum would catapult the Bruins over and land them out in front of the Montreal and Chicago contenders.

After playing about a full season with the Bruins, Mons. Paul Bibeault will oppose his former mates tonight. Mons. Paul hasn't been a ball of fire with the Canucks, since he was "re-loaned" to his owners to replace the injured Bill Durnan.

All that Bibeault has to show for his efforts with Les Canadiens is a 9 to 3 victory over Rangers, which is offset by defeats by Toronto, Detroit and Chicago, two of the setbacks occurring in Montreal, where for three years the partisan fans have made a practice of yelling, "We want Bibeault," whenever Bill Durnan was beaten for a couple of goals.

Since Murph Chamberlain was hospitalized the day after Christmas, the Canucks have been on the downgrade. They've lost a home and home series to the Blackhawks and dropped decisions to Detroit and Toronto, not to mention playing a scoreless tie with the Rangers.

The Canucks need Chamberlain's fight. Murph will not play tonight, which is a break for the Bruins, who, if they can turn in as smooth an exhibition as they did in New York, have an even chance of returning home in first place.

The Rossmen, with the exception of Win Green, will fly home after tonight's game. But, Les Canadiens will come here by train for tomorrow's clash at the Garden, which is completely sold out for the occasion.

The New York Rangers will meet the Maple Leafs tonight in Toronto. The Leafs have been idle for a week but they'll have a busy and rugged week-end, with Rangers and the Red Wings. Rangers didn't take kindly to the two defeats handed them by the Bruins and they'll be out to knock the Leafs around tonight.

A week ago tonight, the Maple Leafs hung a 9 to 3 defeat on the Red Wings. Jolly Jawn Adams probably has been harping on that game all week and if his Wings do another flop tomorrow night there'll be some new faces around the Detroit Olympia next week.

After tonight's engagement in Toronto, the Rangers move out to Chicago, where Bill Moe, the clipping defenseman, will receive a warm reception from the Hawks' fans.

Red Sox to Take 10 Catchers to Camp

By HERB HANNEGAN

Carrigan, Nunamaker, Cady and Thomas. That was the Red Sox catching staff in the year of 1912, when the Sox won the pennant. It has been the custom since then to carry three catchers more often than two. So it is interesting to learn that the Red Sox will take 10 catchers to Sarasota come Feb. 22.

TEN! Who are they? Nobody would know unless they checked Eddie Doherty's roster at Fenway Park. That roster includes all those on the national defense list, all those who were with the Sox last year.

Roy Partee

Here they are:

HAL WAGNER—No. 1 on the Sox list in '44. He batted .330 in 71 games that year, helped keep the Sox in the pennant race until Doerr and Hughson went into the service. He was grabbed in Mid-August. He's available.

FRANKIE PYTLAK — Old "Shuffle off to Buffalo" enlisted in the Navy in March of '42, played nine games at the tail-end of last season but has yet to win back his job. Reason why:

EDDIE McGAH — This California youngster, rated above Rollie Hemsley (Yanks), Bob Scheffing (Cubs) and Herman Franks (Dodgers) in the Hawaiian area, is figured to be No. 2 catcher behind Wagner. "He'll be No. 1" insisted the Yanks' Bill Dickey after watching him throw and hit. "He was the best catcher I saw in the Pacific," said Johnny Pesky.

HERB BREMER — At Little Rock in '42. Reported to Sox at Tufts in '43, re-enlisted as a brakeman, later was drafted into the Army. Batted .266 at Little Rock in '42. Never caught a game for the Sox.

BILL CONROY — Caught 19 games for the Sox in '44 and 39 in '43. Suffered from broken finger but does not figure in Sox plans because of light hitting.

HOWARD DOYLE—Obtained from Louisville at close of '43 season. Hit .281 in 71 games. Called into Army at close of '43. Sox don't like him. Nevertheless, highly regarded by Louisville manager Bill Burwell, now at Indianapolis.

BOB GARBARK—Caught 61 games for Sox last year, was Dave Ferriss' most dependable mate, batted .261 before a withered arm sent him to the hospital.

ROY PARTEE—With Sox two seasons. Stayed until end of '44 when Infantry grabbed him. Pushed him right overseas and he took part in invasion of Okinawa. May not be around for beginning of '46 campaign.

LLOYD V. RICHARDS—Bought by Red Sox at close of '42 season for delivery to Tufts. Navy called him before he had a chance to report. Batted .235 at Wilkes Barre, but Jim Hegan of Lynn and Cleveland had little better average in that league. Lights are bad.

FRED WALTERS — With Sox last year, released in mid-summer to help out Louisville. Batted .340 in 31 games there, participated in Little World Series. Doesn't figure in Sox '46 plans.

There are the 10. No. 1 promises to be Wagner, a left-handed hitter, but with all the ballyhoo for Californian McGah, right-handed batter, you never can tell. Third string job, on merit, will be between Doyle, most promising prospect, and Partee, if he shows. The rest simply are out of luck and if it wasn't for the big league ruling wouldn't even make the trip South.

Toney Penna Leads In Golf Tourney

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP)—Smiling Toney Penna, enjoying a three-stroke advantage gained from a sparkling streak of sub-par shooting, led a streamlined field into the third round of the 72-hole Richmond $10,000 open today with a 134 that was one stroke short of the competitive course record.

The little Dayton, Ohio fellow with the smooth swing tossed a six-under-par score of 33-32—65 yesterday to vault from a second place tie into first position. Harold McSpaden of Sanford, Me., who set the competitive course record a year ago, was far back with 146 among the sixty pros and sixteen amateurs teeing off today.

Miss Tribby to Star In Silver Skates

Although she is touring the nation as the featured star in the Maribel Vinson-Guy Own Ice Revue, lovely Lillian Tribby will fly to Boston next week-end to take part in the colorful Silver Skates Derby at the Garden a week from Sunday.

In the past three years, Miss Tribby, a native of Washington, D. C., has been featured in the top ice shows of the nation.

She recently completed a long run right here in Boston with the Maribel Vinson-Guy Owen show and made a great hit.

During her Boston stay the Washington Miss practiced daily at the Skating Club of Boston and figure skating experts who watched her during workouts here insist that she is one of the finest young stars in the country today.

Miss Tribby will be one of the Derby headliners along with several other figure skating stars who will be announced in the very near future.

The committee is now completing its entire program which includes the figure skaters and the speed skating. With over 400 speed entries to sort and grade, it will still be a few days before the entire card is lined up.

Several contestants have called in during the past week seeking information on starting time and admittance cards. All Derby entrants will be mailed special cards early next week with complete details.

Joey LaMotta's Style Similar to That of Jake

By JACK CONWAY

JOEY LaMOTTA, brother of Jake, will be headed for the fistic heights if he is able to win from Joe Blackwood of Newark, N. J., in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden on next Friday night. Joey and Jake compose one of the most successful brother combinations in the boxing game.

In appearance and in boxing style, Joey LaMotta reminds one of his brother Jake. He is an aggressive, two-handed fighter and keeps going forward every second he is in the ring. He trains with brother Jake and as a result he is always in good condition.

Eddie Mack

Blackwood is the only boxer to win a decision over Al (Red) Priest of Cambridge since the latter resumed boxing after receiving his discharge from the Navy. It is likely that the winner of the LaMotta-Blackwood tussle will try to secure a match with Priest. Priest drew $17,000 net as he defeated Fritzie Zivic. This established him as the best of the local boxing cards. Priest himself sold $3000 worth of tickets for the Zivic bout. Al Mello of Lowell is the last boxer who had such a large personal following.

There will be three other 10-round bouts on the Goodwin Club's card. Lou Woods of Detroit will oppose "Wildcat" Henry of New York. Woods defeated Tommy Bell and lost a close decision to Jake LaMotta.

Henry has engaged in some of his best bouts in western Massachusetts rings. He has beaten Cocoa Kid, Johnny Carter and other first class boxers.

Dave Andrews of Lowell will oppose George Larover, Philadelphia boxer, in another 10-round bout.

Priest vs. Berger

AL PRIEST will try to keep climbing the ladder that leads to fame and riches when he mingles with Maxie Berger, former Canadian champion, in a 10-round bout at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on Jan. 29. Priest has won from Wilfie Shanks, Freddy Cabral, John Henry Walker, Billy Purrone and Fritzie Zivic since he received his discharge from the Navy.

Zivic was quite frank in stating why Priest was able to beat him so decisively.

"Priest did not give me a second's rest," said Zivic. "I was in the best possible condition, and I think I can hit as hard as ever. Priest, however, kept crowding me, and I could not rest a second. Even when I nailed Al with heavy punches he came roaring right back at me. If Priest continues to fight that way, there will be few men of his weight he will not be able to beat."

Eddie Mack, who promoted many of Nate Siegal's bouts in France following World War I, says Priest reminds him a great deal of the former New England welterweight champion. It was Siegal's aggressiveness and hard punching which enabled him to keep winning until he wrested the New England welterweight championship from Young Kloby.

Random Shots at Target

THE SILVER Skates Derby at the Garden a week from tomorrow afternoon should be the most important affair in the history of this ice classic . . . Director Ben Levias tells me he has received more than 400 entries . . . In addition to the speed skating part of the program, there will be 10 figure skating exhibitions . . . There has been a brisk sale of tickets at the Garden, Arena and at Brine's Sporting Goods store on Summer st.

Coveney Star of Arlington Win

BOSTON GARDEN, Jan. 19—Arlington High School turned in the upset of the Greater Boston Hockey League season here this afternoon, outplaying and outgaming Rindge Tech, 3 to 2, to move into a deadlock with the Technicians for top place in the standings.

Center Bill Coveney stole the thunder from the classy French line of the Rindge team, figuring in all three of Arlington's markers.

Coveney's second period solo climaxed the game. Up to that point, Rindge had never trailed an opponent in five games. And to top it off, Coveney turned in the nifty individual performance while his own team was a player short, carrying through the entire and astounded Rindge outfit.

Norwood vs. Wellesley

FIRST PERIOD

After nine minutes and 34 seconds of stumbling about the ice, Wellesley scored on Norwood. Both teams showed very little until Milton Murray of Wellesley picked up a short pass from Angie Nicolo in a scrimmage near the net for a score. Norwood failed to get a single shot at Eliot Ireland, the Wellesley goal-tender.

Score: Wellesley 1, Norwood 0.

SECOND PERIOD

The caliber of play improved considerably in this period. Len Maccini of Wellesley took a pass from Nicolo and backhanded it into the Norwood reservation for a well-executed score. Murray, with only seven seconds remaining in the period, fired high into the Norwood strings for the third Wellesley goal.

Score—Wellesley 3, Norwood 0.

THIRD PERIOD

Wellesley unleashed a terrific barrage of six goals in this period to tie the all-time high for the Bay State Hockey League. The only other nine-goal margin was made in the Waltham-Norwood game of this season. Maccini collected three of the Wellesley goals, Nicolo blinked the lamp twice and Murray annexed the other.

Final Score—Wellesley 9, Norwood 0.

WELLESLEY (9)—Nicolo, lw; Murray, c; Kinlin, rw; Maccini, ld; Calder, rd; Ireland.

NORWOOD (0)—Monbouquette, rw; Jankowski, c; Billingham, lw; Connolly, rd; Wall, ld; Foley, g.

Wellesley spares—Barber, Feldhouse, Kaiser, Balboni, Monaghan.

Norwood spares—Glynn, Okulovich, McDonough, McAuliffe, Bowles.

First Period: Wellesley—Murray (Nicolo) 9:34. Penalty—Calder (hooking).

Second Period: Wellesley—Maccini (Nicolo) 2:04. Wellesley—Murray (unassisted) 9:53. Penalties—Kinlin and Wall (high sticks); Kinlin and Connolly (high sticks).

Third Period: Wellesley—Maccini (unassisted) 2:01. Wellesley—Maccini (Murray) 5:27. Wellesley—Murray (Nicolo) 6:04. Wellesley—Maccini (Kaiser) 6:36. Wellesley—Nicolo (unassisted) 8:00. Wellesley—Nicolo (Murray) 8:29. Penalties—Kaiser (interference); Bowles (tripping); Wall and Kinlin (roughing); Balboni (tripping—a penalty shot was awarded to Jankowski on the play).

Framingham vs. B. C. H.

FIRST PERIOD

The long talons of the B. C. High Eaglets wasted little time before clutching their prey. Warren Kinneen picked up a rebound and fed it to Capt. Warren Lewis after 44 seconds of play for the first Eaglet score. Lewis corraled a loose puck in the center at 1:35. B. C. completely dominated the play for the remainder of the period.

Score—B. C. High 2, Framingham 0.

SECOND PERIOD

The Eaglets continued to stay deep down in Framingham territory. Jim Becker collaborated with Ray Cattaneo and Bob Kinneen at 2:47 for a thirty foot B. C. counter, Coach Johnnie Temple sent Green into the game to replace Ed Casey in the B. C. nets and used his third line repeatedly but the Eaglets continued to press.

Score—B. C. High 4, Framingham 0.

THIRD PERIOD

Bill Leonard, third B. C. high goalie was reached for two quick Framingham scores before first liner Ed Casey was rushed back into the game. Doug Scribner chipped in the first from a pass from John Savage and Savage teamed with Dick Welch for the second.

Final score—B. C. High 4, Framingham 0.

Tony Shucco Denies Assault

Tony Shucco, former heavyweight boxer from the North End, pleaded not guilty in municipal court today to a charge of assault and battery and was released in personal recognizance for hearing Jan. 28.

John F. Buckley, of Flushing, L. I., complained that Shucco had broken his glasses and knocked out his front teeth in a fist fight in Hanover st. shortly after midnight.

CUBS SELL CATCHER

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs announced today sale of Catcher Len Rice to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, trimming their top-heavy catching staff to eight.

BCH-Wellesley Win at Arena

By JACK CONWAY

The golden Eaglets of B. C. High blazed out in all of their fury to submerge Framingham, 4 to 2, before 4600 Bay State hockey fans at the Arena yesterday afternoon.

Wellesley roared like a lion to atomize Norwood, 9 to 0,and tie the all-time Bay State scoring record formerly held by Waltham, who clubbed the same Norwood team earlier in the season.

B. U. High swept into the lead early in the first period when Capt. Warren Lewis scored on two occasions. B. C. High completely dominated play for the remainder of the round, firing an avalanche of rubber at Dick Freeman.

Rindge Tech vs. Arlington

FIRST PERIOD

Pete Messuri broke up a play at his own blue line, invaded Arlington territory before passing almost the width of the rink to Len Gagnon who fired from just outside the defensemen to set the Red light aglow in the first three minutes of play. Bill Coveney's solo was broken up inside the blue line but he managed to drop the puck to Don Sennott who lifted a 10 footer into the strings. The disc eluded Ray Picard after bounding off a Rindge stick.

Score end first period—Rindge 1, Arlington 1.

SECOND PERIOD

Sennott was put off the ice at the four-minute mark for holding, putting Arlington on the spot. However, the Rindge offense failed to click as Coveney broke up a play at his own blue line, recovered the puck and skated through the entire Rindge team to slap a close-up past Picard. It was the first time this year Rindge had trailed an opponent.

Second period, Arlington 2, Rindge 1.

THIRD PERIOD

Dick Briand carried to the Arlington back boards and passed into a flock of players in front of the net. Gagnon managed to get a piece of the puck and he jammed it home to create another deadlock in the first minute of play. Coveney broke loose three minutes later, circled the Rindge defenseman to close in on Picard alone. His shot was kicked out nicely, but Sennott was along in time to slam home the rebound.

Final score: Arlington 3, Rindge Tech 2.

Medford vs. Cam. Latin

FIRST PERIOD

Bill Bradley started the scoring for Medford when he wound up at the blue line and fired a liner into the Latin net, a high, wide shot. Medford increased this margin on a Bill Duryea feed to Dick Venoit who carried around the defense to touch off the red light again.

Score end first period: Medford 2, Cambridge Latin 0.

SECOND PERIOD

After a delay of 10 minutes because of the dimming of the lights, the two teams picked up play under twilight conditions but neither could put together an offense. The hockey was developing into a shinny game when the lights were restored to full strength.

Score end 2d period—Medford 2, Cambridge Latin 0.

THIRD PERIOD

Medford increased its margin when Fred Durbury let fly a 25 footer just before hitting the Cambridge defense. aLtin could get nowhere until a Medford player was banned to the penalty box. Then, George Costa slipped through to feed Dick Rigarzio for a Cantab marker. Final score, Medford 3, Cambridge aLtin 1.
